

Department of Labor regulations require Cornell University to provide you with a very large package of information about your retirement plan, which can be provided to you electronically by TIAA and Fidelity Investments if you sign up for electronic delivery. Electronic delivery is a fast and efficient way for you to receive this important retirement plan information via email, and it helps reduce paper and clutter for you at home and at work.

Electronic delivery is easy and ensures you have:

- secure access to important plan information you need to know
- the ongoing ability to download information and print documents
- access to your delivery options that you can update at any time and/or revert to paper if necessary

For TIAA: Log into TIAA at www.tiaa.org. Select My Account; select Update Profile & Settings; select Your Communication Preferences, select “Email” for the types of communications that you want to receive electronically.

For Fidelity Investments: Log into Fidelity NetBenefits® at www.fidelity.com/atwork. Select Profile, select E-mail address and verify it is correct, select Mail Preferences and then Update the types of communications that you want to receive electronically.
